

Sugar Camp Registration

General Registration

Where: Neqotkuk First Nation
When: March 25, 2023
How to Register:

Please email your name, indicate your home community, your current address, your preferred sugar camp location, and phone number to monica.sarkies@wolastoqey.ca

This is a free event and registration is open to all 6 Wolastoqey communities. Proper cold weather gear is necessary. Spots are limited to 10 participants with meals included. We will accept the first to register. Accommodations are further limited but will be provided if there is a need. Participants are expected to fill out a short survey upon completion of the sugar camp. The event will include updates on forestry related topics in Wolastoqey territory (forestry update pamphlets will be available to all communities) and feedback will be solicited. A physically demanding "Teaching the Teachers Sugar Camp" will be offered in the Fredericton area.

Sugar Camp Registration

Teaching the Teachers

Where: Stanley/Fredericton NB
When: March 18-19, 2023
How to Register:

Please email your name, indicate your home community, your current address, your preferred sugar camp location and phone number to monica.sarkies@wolastoqey.ca

This event requires a two-day commitment and 1/4 mile hike to the site. Proper cold weather gear, boots and/or snowshoes are necessary. The event is free and registration is open to all 6 Wolastoqey communities. Accommodations and meals will be provided if required. Spots are limited (10) and we will accept the first to register who commit to both days and are able to hike through snowy conditions. Participants are expected to fill out a short survey upon completion of the sugar camp. The event will include updates on forestry related topics in Wolastoqey territory (forestry update pamphlets will be available to all communities) and feedback will be solicited. A general registration event less physically demanding will be offered in Neqotkuk.
